

Pine genetics

Genetic diversity in Scottish Scots pine

This work will focus on measuring the genetic variation within Scots pine in Scotland, and identifying the parts of the environment that have shaped this evolution.

Local adaptation in native Scots pine

Stephen Cavers (Centre for Ecology and Hydrology - CEH): scav@ceh.ac.uk

Glenn Iason (James Hutton Institute): glenn.iason@hutton.ac.uk

Joan Cottrell (Forest Research): Joan.cottrell@forestry.gsi.gov.uk

The extended phenotype - role of microbes in disease susceptibility

Karsten Schonrogge ksc@ceh.ac.uk

Mel Gibbs mela1@ceh.ac.uk

Anna Oliver aola@ceh.ac.uk

Jo Taylor (Royal Botanic Gardens Edinburgh - RBGE): J.Taylor2@rbge.ac.uk

Modelling evolution in pine populations

Dan Chapman (Centre for Ecology and Hydrology - CEH): dcha@ceh.ac.uk

Richard Whittet (Centre for Ecology and Hydrology - CEH): ricwhi58@ceh.ac.uk

Photos: C. Riddell (top), A. Perry (bottom)